On this day in 1803 the first public library in the United States opened its doors. Why do you think our public libraries and other public services are so important?